

CROCUS:

Crocus blossoms are magnets for winter-weary bees, who are drawn to the rich, golden pollen inside each flower. They are edible but have little or no taste. Anything that kills weed sedges (which grow from corms).